Pre- and post-graduate teaching

- 1978-86 Since my first semester of matriculation I have been employed as student teacher. I was teaching medical students, nurses and students of manual therapy in the following subjects: physiology, anatomy, pharmacology and social medicine. During each semester of my time as medical student (1978 – 1986) I was teaching.
- 1986 - Due to my negotiation experiences obtained at my time as Head of the Union of Medical Students (FADL), I have been teaching negotiation practice and theory for union leaders, insurance companies, medical companies, banks and public administrators. This activity is limited to a maximum of 8 days per year.
- 1989 - 91 Through three semesters, I have been teaching in negotiation and conflict management for an international class of law students at the Faculty of Law, University of Copenhagen together with Professor, D.Sc (Law) Vibeke Vindeløv as part of the international Erasmus courses.
- 1994-97 I was employed as an Associate Professor, Medical sociology, Faculty of Health, University of Copenhagen. During this four year time period I was teaching each semester classes of medical students in medical sociology.
- 1994 - I have been teaching at courses for education of medical specialists in oncology, plastic surgery, surgery and pediatrics in late effects and psychosocial aspects of cancer. These lectures are a couple of hours, two – three times each semester.
- I have lectured for Ph.D. students in different settings at the Research Schools associated to the Universities of Copenhagen, Århus and Odense on subjects related to cancer, environmental epidemiology and research methods.
- I have lectured regularly for medical students in the course in ‘Epidemiology’ and also in a course on ‘Cancer’ offered to students at the Faculty of Health, University of Copenhagen.
- I have been lecturing at the public university (Folkeuniversitetet) in Århus, Odense and Copenhagen on subjects related to late effects in cancer, psychosocial issues as well as social inequality and spirituality in cancer survivors.
- 1994 - At several clinical oncology departments all over Denmark, I have been lecturing on subjects related to late effects in cancer patients, psychosocial issues, spirituality and integration of rehabilitation activities in the daily clinical practice.
- 2001 - During the last ten years, I have been giving a two day workshop in Research Method at the annual conference, The International Psychosocial Society. The audience has been representing up to 24 different countries across the world.
- 2010 - I am teaching at the newly initiated diploma education in cancer nursing at the Copenhagen Metropol Academy and in Århus.

Oral presentations:

I have more than 200 oral presentations at International and Danish scientific meetings.
